SÜDPACK Medica launches new service for the healthcare industry

SÜDPACK Medica has introduced a new service called MedHub. Effective immediately, customers can conveniently order high-quality, pre-made pouches in standard sizes and defined batch quantities – by phone, email, or online. Manufactured in ISO-certified cleanrooms, the MedHub packaging solutions are always in stock and, of course, fulfill the stringent quality requirements of the healthcare industry.

With a strong customer focus and reliable delivery – whether on the requested date or just in time – MedHub is the go-to solution for medical facilities and suppliers needing standard pouches quickly and with minimal effort for efficient, secure product packaging. At its newly extended facility operated in ISO 7 in Coulmer, France, SÜDPACK Medica has streamlined its operations to enable prompt order handling and fast shipment of stocked products.

The pre-made pouches can be used at various stages of the pharmaceutical value chain – for example, to package products such as stoppers, filters, or connectors. They are also frequently used as simple transfer packaging for items such as glass vials, ampoules, or syringes, which are essential for administering liquid parenterals like infusions – and must therefore remain completely sterile prior to filling.

In addition to Tyvek roll stock, the current portfolio focuses on three-side seal pouches made from film and Tyvek – sterilizable, puncture-resistant, and highly resistant to moisture. These pouches provide excellent barrier properties for maximum product protection and allow fast, clean opening, even in high-pressure environments, thanks to the material's superior peelability. For heavier products, SÜDPACK also offers three-side seal pouches made of PA/PE in various sizes. These pouches provide a dependable microbial barrier and are also suitable for gamma sterilization.

The pouches, manufactured under cleanroom conditions, are permanently in stock and can be ordered online at any time. To ensure maximum quality, safety, and regulatory compliance, SÜDPACK Medica provides all relevant certifications. More information about MedHub is available at SÜDPACK: MedHub.

The new service is targeted at customers who require an ongoing supply of standard products for their daily packaging needs – and who value convenient ordering and short delivery times. Of course, SÜDPACK Medica also continues to provide fully customizable pouch solutions, offering a free choice of formats, material combinations, and opening systems – with both printed and unprinted options available.

If you would like to find out more about the MedHub service, you can visit SÜDPACK Medica at stand 4F12 at PharmaPack in Paris on January 21 and 22.
